December 1, 2008

The February 2009 issue will geographically focus on San Francisco-a pioneer of the green movement. In the feature titled A Green City On The Bay, learn how and why the City of San Francisco, and businesses, institutions and residents have incorporated green building and sustainable practices.

This issue will include a special feature on the Bay Area residence of David Gottfried, U.S. Green Building Council's founder. This story, titled Practicing What We Preach, will incorporate sentiment expressed by Gottfried and others such as Rocky Prior, President, Southern Diversified Products, from interviews conducted with Green Space Today. Learn about this Platinum LEED certified home and the environmental family that lives within its healthy confines.

Green Space Today is also honored to feature Terry Tamminen, author of Lives Per Gallon. Terry Tamminen was the former Secretary of the California Environmental Protection Agency and Chief Policy Advisor to Governor Schwarzenegger. In 2007, Mr. Tamminen was named the Cullman Senior Fellow and Director of the Climate Policy Program of the New
